Notice regarding a Change in Division Name

Denka Company Limited (hereinafter “Denka”) hereby announces its decision to change the name of the Infrastructure & Inorganic Materials Division. This move reflects the immanent diversification of the division’s operations as it bolsters the Company’s initiatives under the Denka100 management plan new growth strategies. Details follow.

1. Change in Organization Name

New name	Current name
Infrastructure & Social Solutions Division	Infrastructure & Inorganic Materials Division

2. Effective Date of Change

May 11, 2016

3. Purpose of Change

With an outstanding track record in the manufacture and sale of cement, special cement additives, inorganic materials and fertilizers, the division aims to create solutions that go beyond the scope of its conventional operations—for example, providing consulting services that draw on its know-how in such fields as special cement additives for building repair to improve the useful lives of structures—while looking to popularize innovative farming systems. With this in mind, we relocated operations involved in supplying corrugated pipes for construction and agricultural use from the Life Science & Environmental Products Division to the Infrastructure & Inorganic Materials Division on April 1, 2016. We then changed the latter’s division name on May 11, 2016, with the aim of underlining our commitment to contributing to people’s well-being through the development of social infrastructure and the provision of solutions for issues confronting society.
